KATE AMATO

At 9 years old, Kate was diagnosed with a rare and aggressive soft tissue cancer that attacks skeletal muscles. Despite a long and painful battle with a terrible disease, Kate continually radiated kindness, joy and beauty. She was a special soul who captured the hearts of everyone who was blessed to know her. Kate's resilient and inspiring spirit lives on through the work of the Kate Amato Foundation.

During Kate's illness, we learned how severely underfunded research is for childhood cancer, resulting in outdated, highly toxic treatments and low survival rates for children. Kate's Foundation is dedicated to finding safer and more effective treatments for children with cancer by funding innovative research that accelerates the pace of progress and saves young lives.

To date, KATE AMATO FOUNDATION has helped fund $475,000 in grants to support groundbreaking pediatric cancer research at some of the leading Immunotherapy and Cancer Genomics labs in the country. Thank you for helping us find better treatments for children with cancer!
